MilfordMD Cosmetic Dermatology Surgery & Laser Center is hosting a HydraFacial MD special event Thursday, May 19, 2016 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., where consumers can come to the Milford, Penn., cosmetic practice and sample the new facial rejuvenation technology.

Cosmetic surgeon and MilfordMD Medical Director, Dr. Richard Buckley, says HydraFacial MD is not your traditional facial. It's a new technology offered through physicians' offices that helps to resurface and rejuvenate the skin, keeping skin healthy. Documented results show a series of HydraFacial treatments can deliver long-term results. "In a 30- to 45-minute facial treatment, we can dramatically improve skin hydration and rid the skin of dead skin cells. In a series of three or four treatments, we've seen a reduction in fine lines, sun or age spots, pore size, oily texture and even less pronounced nasolabial folds," Dr. Buckley says.

The HydraFacial MD May 19 special event at MilfordMD gives women and men the opportunity to sample a HydraFacial MD treatment for only $99. And those who want to continue with a series of HydraFacial treatments can apply the $99 toward the purchase of a treatment protocol. "Treatments start at $175 for a basic HydraFacial MD treatment," Dr. Buckley says. "Those who sample the treatment on May 19 may choose a different treatment for their protocol, based on their skin type or desired results. The $99 can be applied towards their purchase of their treatment protocol, which means they, essentially, sample HydraFacial MD for free." One of the beauties of HydraFacial MD technology, according to Dr. Buckley, is treatments can be tailored to patients' skin concerns.

HydraFacial MD features a patented Vortex-Fusion serum delivery system that cleanses, exfoliates and extracts to remove impurities and dead skin cells. At the same time, the technology delivers replenishing, vital nutrients to the skin's surface, such as antioxidants, peptides and hyaluronic acid. Healthcare providers trained in using HydraFacial MD, including those at MilfordMD, address specific skin concerns with specially designed protocols. For example, MilfordMD's trained aesthetician would design a protocol featuring super serums to boost skin hydration for women and men who simply want a treatment that improves skin health. The boost of antioxidants, peptides and hyaluronic acid helps to protect skin from environmental toxins, while leaving it rejuvenated. The skin health protocol would then use a patented Vortex-Peel, with a mixture of glycolic and salicylic acids, to gently remove dead skin cells without downtime. Next, the aesthetician uses the device's painless suction option to clean out pores and extract toxins; then, delivers a fusion of antioxidants and more to top off this skin fitness regimen.

"The event is designed to get the word out about this great skin resurfacing and rejuvenating option," Dr. Buckley says. "Of course, there are many other nonsurgical, minimally invasive and surgical options that achieve additional dramatic results for reducing facial wrinkles and lines, hyperpigmentation, skin sagging, volume loss and more. For the person who wants a pick-me-up that promises to leave skin glowing for a big event and healthier in the weeks following treatment, this is perfect. There's no downtime. No risk. Only a nice reward."
